

Practice note 15 – Requests to notarise documents intended for use in New Zealand

Notaries are reminded that documents intended for use in New Zealand do not require notarisation. Generally, witnessing or certification by a solicitor or a Justice of the Peace is sufficient. This is the case, irrespective of the end user/recipient, and regardless of the nature of the document. A comprehensive list of Justices of the Peace is available at <https://justiceofthepeace.org.nz/>
